The Bureau of Economic and Business Research (BEBR) is an applied research center in the Warrington College of Business Administration at the University of Florida. Collecting data and conducting applied research of importance to Florida’s local governments is an important part of BEBR’s mission.

The University of Florida would like to invite you to attend a conversation about applications of BEBR’s data collection and analytical capabilities to issues of interest to local governments. This event, hosted by your local Cooperative Extension office, will feature faculty from the University of Florida, Bureau of Economic and Business Research.

This videoconferencing opportunity is scheduled for May 17, 7:30 A.M. to 8:30 A.M.

Recent examples of interest include:

- Evaluating the implications of green jobs, energy efficiency, and renewable energy for economic development in Sarasota County.
- Surveying Alachua County residents on waterway use.
- Evaluating the impact of recessions on migration in Florida.
- Evaluating state and local impacts of property and sales tax reforms.
- Producing and evaluating local area population estimates and projections.
- Surveying residents and commercial drivers concerning road and highway conditions.
